ATTRACTIONS OF DEATH.

"Youth, beautiful youth!" sighed Charles J. Ross as he looked after the shrieking hatbands of two college youths on Broadway.

"Say," continued Mr. Ross, "there's nobody knows the real joys of life like the college kids. We stopped in a college town the last time I was on the road and I wandered into the college chapel where an ascetic looking parson was pointing out the straight path to a lively looking bunch.

"Hell, my young friends," he rumbled warningly, "is paved with chorus girls, champagne and automobiles—"

"O Death, where is thy sting?" interrupted a fervent voice from the rear—and the teacher broke the thread of his discourse.

ARROGANCE OR EGOTISM.

The Reno Journal continues its policy of attempting to educate the residents of northern Nevada, particularly Reno, as to the outlook of the next political campaign and is already spouting the defeat of President Taft. This is not at all surprising for the paper has had similar spasms in the past and each new outburst is treated as a joke by the Renettes. If the Journal would only come down to earth occasionally and imbibe a small decoction of common sense, instead of attempting to conduct the affairs of this universe all by its little self, it would do this state a great favor.

There are baseball fans, ringside rooters, football enthusiasts and now come the aviation—what? Air fans would appear to be an appropriate title.

KNOWLEDGE OF LATE MARQUIS ITO WAS LIMITED

APPLICANT FOR TEACHER'S CERTIFICATE HAD READY ANSWER.

The seven applicants for teachers' certificates concluded their examination Wednesday evening, after spending two days in answering the questions. The examination was held at the high school building under the supervision of Gilbert C. Ross, district superintendent of schools. Mr. Ross will leave next Sunday for Carson where the papers will be corrected and the applicants advised as to their fate.

Among the different questions propounded was one asking about Marquis Ito, and the answer of one of the young ladies taking the examination should be marked perfect. Her knowledge of the deceased Japanese statesman was as follows: "He is a Jap, but out of work at present."

WAY TO MAKE YOUR HENS LAY IN WINTER

Winter is the time of the year when eggs bring a good price and yet how many fail to reap a good harvest of eggs now, simply because they have neglected to care and feed for the poultry at this time of the year. If you have the right variety to produce winter eggs and care for them properly you will be repaid for all trouble and expense. Hens should have feed enough to supply their own physical needs and then enough in addition for egg-making.

"There is far more danger of under feeding than over feeding. They should have whole wheat, corn and oats fed in litter twice a day, and a dry mash mixed with two parts of bran and one part middlings and one part cracked corn should be fed in a hopper at noon. "Ground green bone fed three times a week with some shells, beef scraps and fresh water is considered an excellent egg producer. "Keep them indoors in warm, clean, well ventilated quarters and your hens will lay in January as in April."

The above is from the Carson Appeal and was published about a week ago. At first we had faith in the article but now we consider the whole thing a canard. The editor of this paper has thirty chickens and has tried every one of the suggestions to make them lay but not an egg, or even a cackle has resulted from the experiments. The hens have been well housed and on the cold nights we have even taken them into our own house to keep them warm. No results. We have fed them on dry mash and sour mash and not a solitary fowl has even evinced an inclination to contribute to our daily ham and eggs. There is something wrong somewhere and we are beginning to suspect that the editor of the Appeal knows nothing at all about the rudiments of enticement a chicken to lay eggs.

A SERENADE.

To thee, O love, in thy sacrament high,
Comes a troubadour a-singing,
Who craves from thee one tender word.
To him bright hope a-bringing;
The star-shine of the heaven's vault
Matches not thy love-lit eyes—
O grant to me of thy treasure, love,
The benison that I prize.

The moonbeams play in elfin glee
O'er hill and dale this night;
The oriole calls from arbored nest
To its mate now hid from sight;
No rival thine the moonbeams bright
To the witchery of those eyes;
No voice so sweet as thine, my dear,
Greets love in glad surprise.

One word from thee, and now good rest,
Thy minstrel no more may sing;
One glance of thine, no sweeter grace
The new-born day can bring.
May remembrance hold him doubly dear
As thy suppliant goes from sight,
Sweet dreams to thee, through all the hours,
Good night, my sweet, good night.

—By Edward N. Bush.

If they resign they will be re-appointed to their positions by Governor Dickerson and will then have only the county of Washoe to look after. Whether or not they will take this action has not yet been fully determined.

FOURTEEN NEW MEMBERS FOR VOLUNTEERS

At the regular weekly meeting of the Tonopah volunteer fire department last night, fourteen new applications for membership were submitted. Several of this bunch were from old members which shows that a determined effort is being made to help raise the debt which is now bothering the organization. With the grand benefit show, which comes off on the 18th, it is hoped that every outstanding bill can be paid from the receipts of the evening's performances at the Butler theater.

WILL NOT HOLD DANCE THIS EVENING

The Tonopah Social club will not hold their regular weekly dance this evening owing to the fact that the Knights of Columbus held a dance last night and tomorrow night there will be another affair at the Miners' Exchange hall. The club will continue to give dancing lessons for which no fee will be charged and between the hours of 8 and 9 this evening everybody is invited to be present.

VENIRE FACIAS WILL BE DRAWN TODAY

A venire of 150 names will be drawn today by Judge M. R. Ayerill and County Clerk R. G. Pohl, to constitute the next trial jury. Should the list be exhausted a second venire will be drawn from the remaining names, of which 450 were secured during the last session of the county commissioners.
